Introduction

To help you prepare for a secure retirement, the University of North Carolina System (UNC System) offers eligible employees a choice between two major retirement plans:

- The Optional Retirement Program of the University of North Carolina (ORP)
- Teachers' and State Employees' Retirement System (TSERS)

As a UNC System employee, you must choose to participate in either the ORP or TSERS, subject to your eligibility. For this reason, these two plans are sometimes referred to as the "mandatory" retirement plans.

The UNC System offers you a choice because we recognize that different people have different circumstances, preferences and goals.

Planning for Retirement Income: The Big Picture

One of the most important steps in preparing for retirement is setting your goals — you need to know how much income you need in order to plan how to achieve it. For help establishing your retirement savings goals, review all of the retirement program materials available at <https://myapps.northcarolina.edu/hr/benefits-leave/retirement/>.

To prepare for a comfortable retirement, you should plan on having retirement income from several sources.

Most experts estimate you'll need between 70% to 90%
of your pre-retirement income to maintain your standard of living in retirement.

Of course, how much income you need during retirement depends on several factors — including what you want to do (travel, buy a second home, etc.) and when you retire (which affects the number of years you'll need your savings to last).

Participating in one of the UNC System's mandatory retirement programs is a good start. Social Security benefits will also figure into your plans for retirement income, though experts estimate that Social Security only replaces about 40% of your pre-retirement income.

Choosing Between the Two Retirement Plans

The ORP is a “defined contribution” plan. In this, it differs from TSERS, which is a “defined benefit” plan.

Defined Contribution Plan (Example: ORP)	Defined Benefit Plan (Example: TSERS)
The value of your retirement benefit is not determined by a predetermined formula. Instead, it is based on the contributions you make to the plan (your choice, subject to various rules), how you invest them (among different investment options offered by the plan) and the performance of the investment funds you select. Because these may vary, your benefit at retirement may vary; however, because you have more control over these factors (specifically, your contributions and investment choices), you have more control over your retirement benefit than under a defined benefit plan.	The value of your retirement benefit is determined by a predetermined formula, which is usually based on your service, your pay and other factors.
ORP	TSERS
In general, you may find the ORP to be more favorable: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> For UNC System employees who enter the plan at a younger age and who value a retirement benefit that is portable, in the event they leave the UNC System within 5 years. If you prefer to have more control over how your plan contributions are invested to better tailor your portfolio to your overall investment strategy. If you wish to customize your income options at retirement — which can include fix guaranteed payments as well as variable income option. 	TSERS is generally more favorable: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> For employees who are hired and begin participating at relatively later ages and for those who plan to stay with the UNC System for the duration of their careers. If you prefer not to have to assume the risks and responsibility of making your own investment decisions, TSERS may be a good fit for you. If you prefer to have your retirement based on your consecutive highest four years of UNC System employee salary, your age and your years of service. However, you should also closely review the contribution-based benefit rules and QEBA provisions. For more information about TSERS, see myNCRetirement.gov. Among other resources, at this website you can find a handbook providing an overview of TSERS.

Other Benefits Related to Your Mandatory Retirement Plan

Your participation in either the ORP or TSERS may make you eligible for other benefits as well.

Health Insurance After Retirement

As a participant in either the ORP or TSERS, you may be eligible to continue health coverage under the North Carolina State Health Plan when you retire and elect a monthly retirement benefit.

Details vary based on when you are hired:

- If you were hired on or after January 1, 2021, you will not be able to continue health insurance coverage under the North Carolina State Health Plan (State Health Plan) when you retire.
- If you were first hired before October 1, 2006, and retire with five or more years of contributory retirement service, you will be eligible for health care coverage at no cost, under certain plan options. Check with your institution’s Human Resources/Benefits Office for details on plans and premiums.

- If you were first hired between October 1, 2006 and December 31, 2020, in order to receive health care coverage at no cost, you must retire with 20 years of retirement service credit. If you have at least five years of contributory retirement service, but less than 20 years of retirement service credit, you may be eligible for coverage by paying a percentage of the total cost. Check with your institution’s Human Resources/Benefits Office for details on plans and premiums.

You may also choose to cover a dependent. In all cases, the full cost of dependent coverage is paid by you.

Please note: You will forfeit your eligibility for the State’s retiree group health plan coverage if you withdraw your entire account from the ORP or TSERS, or transfer or roll it over to an individual retirement account (IRA) or another employer’s retirement plan before applying for coverage.

ORP Information

Eligibility

Permanent (non-temporary) employees working 30 or more hours per week are eligible for the ORP.

Enrollment

If you are eligible for the ORP, you have 30 days from your date of hire/appointment to make your retirement plan decision. Be sure to review your retirement plan information thoroughly so that you are comfortable with your choice.

If you do not make an election to enroll in the ORP within 30 days of your date of hire/appointment, you automatically will be enrolled in TSERS instead.

Keep in mind that, once you are enrolled in either the ORP or TSERS, your election cannot be changed.

You enroll in the ORP by logging on to the Empyrean Enrollment Platform at <https://myapps.northcarolina.edu/hr/benefits-leave/health-and-welfare-benefits/health-benefits-enrollment/>. Once you make your ORP election, you must select the specific funds in which to invest and designate your beneficiary(ies) with the ORP carrier, TIAA.

When Your Participation in the ORP Begins

If you enroll in the ORP, the effective date of your participation will be your hire/appointment date. Your deductions will be calculated retroactive to your hire/appointment date.

Choosing a Beneficiary

When you enroll, you must choose one or more beneficiaries as the person(s) who receive the vested value of your plan benefit if you should die before you retire. (If you die after you begin receiving retirement benefits, whether payment is made to another person depends upon the form of payment you selected for receiving your benefit.)

Contributions

Your benefit is funded by contributions to the ORP, made by both you and the UNC System. The amount of these contributions is a percentage of your eligible compensation from the UNC System.

The exact percentages of these contributions are established by the General Assembly. For 2026, the amount of your employee contributions is 6% of your eligible pay, and UNC System contributions are equal to 6.84% of your eligible pay.

Your contributions to the ORP, and those from the UNC System, are allocated by you to various investment options, as described in “Investment Options and Other Important Information.”

Your contributions are deducted from your paychecks on a pre-tax basis (before state and federal taxes). UNC System contributions are also made on a pre-tax basis. This means that you are not taxed on contributions and their investment earnings until you begin receiving payments from the plan.

Contributions to the ORP end when you are no longer employed with the UNC System or no longer eligible to participate if still employed.

If you are re-employed by the UNC System, special rules apply regarding your participation in the plan and distributions made from the plan. See the plan document for details.

Contribution Limits

There is an annual limit on the maximum ORP contributions which can be made by you and the UNC System. This limit is set by Internal Revenue Code Section 415; the 2026 limit is $72,000.

Compensation Limit

For purposes of the ORP, eligible compensation is defined as your salary, overtime or shift differential, commissions, bonuses and similar payments.

If you participate in any other defined contribution plan sponsored by the UNC System, such as one or more of the voluntary supplemental retirement plans, your contributions to those plans count toward these limits as well.

Eligible compensation is limited by the Internal Revenue Code Section 401(a)(17). As of January 1, 2026, the annual limit is $360,000. If you are hired prior to July 1, 1996, the annual limit for 2026 is $535,000.

Rollover Contributions

As of January 1, 2012, the ORP will accept rollovers or transfers of pre-tax funds from certain other qualified plans. However, the ORP does not accept direct rollovers of after-tax contributions from another plan. For more information, see your institution's Human Resources/Benefits Office.

Vesting

Being "vested" means you have a non-forfeitable right to the ownership of your plan benefits, even if you leave employment with the UNC System.

You are always 100% vested in your own contributions to the plan, as well as their investment earnings.

You are 100% vested in the UNC System's contributions and their earnings after five years of participating in the ORP.

In addition, some special vesting rules apply:

- You become 100% vested in the UNC System's contributions and their earnings upon your death. This means that if you die while still employed by the UNC System, your beneficiary is entitled to the full value of your retirement benefit, including UNC System contributions and their earnings, even if you had fewer than five years of participation in the ORP.
- If you leave employment with a constituent institution of the UNC System before completing five years of participation in the ORP, but within 12 months, you continue participation with your subsequent employer in a "like retirement plan" that is the core defined contribution retirement plan of another institution of higher education or health care*, and is underwritten by one of the currently or previously approved ORP carriers, or through the purchase of one or more Investment Funds from a Plan-approved Mutual Fund Company, with whom the Participant participated in the plan, or in which he or she could have participated if the participant had continued participation in the plan, then the University may vest you in the value of the University contributions and their earnings.

"Like Retirement Plan" means a primary (mandatory) defined contributions (DC) retirement plan (not a defined benefit (DB) plan) of an institution, organization, or system of higher education or health care (including without limitation, schools which are part of the National Consortium for Specialized Secondary Schools of Mathematics, Science and Technology)*, in each case in which the individual participates through one or more annuity contracts of an insurance company, or through the purchase of one or more investment funds of a plan-approved mutual fund company, with whom the individual participated in the UNC ORP, or which they could have participated in had participation continued in the UNC ORP. Your employer must contribute to the retirement plan.

Participation in Other Plans That Count Toward Vesting

If you leave the UNC System your prior participation in any combination of TSERS, the Local Governmental Employees' Retirement System (LGERS) and/or the Consolidated Judicial Retirement System (CJRS), as well the ORP, may count toward the ORP's five-year participation requirement for vesting.

* The UNC System considers the following criteria when evaluating institutions:

a.) an institution of higher education, affiliated entity of higher education, or an associated entity or foundation of higher education whose sole purpose is to support an institution of higher education;

b.) a health care entity providing patient and research activities as provided by UNC Health or ECU Health, or a foundation of a health care entity whose sole purpose is to support the health care system providing patient and research activities. Individuals assigned to work on a contractual or temporary basis, such as traveling nurses, at health care institutions do not meet the definition of subsequent employer under the ORP. Individuals must receive W-2 wages directly from a health care entity and not from a staffing agency or other third party; and c.) high schools that are part of the National Consortium for Specialized Secondary Schools of Mathematics, Science and Technology.

 Previously approved ORP carriers are only considered if they were offered in the UNC System ORP plan when separation/termination occurred.

Investment Options and Other Important Information

If you enroll in the ORP, you will need to decide how to invest both your employee contributions and the UNC System contributions. Our ORP carrier, TIAA, offers a variety of investment funds and a broad array of fund categories. These include both fixed and variable account investment options and mutual funds. Before making your investment selections, you should assess your ability to tolerate different types of risk, given your retirement time horizon. You also may want to consider how you invest other retirement assets and diversify as appropriate.

To learn about the investment options provided by TIAA and review other important information, visit <https://myapps.northcarolina.edu/hr/benefits-leave/retirement>. In addition, you can find TIAA's website address and telephone number in the "Contact Information" section near the back of this summary.

The information provided by TIAA includes:

- Financial strength or stability,
- Fees, charges and operating expenses,
- Explanations of the different forms in which you may receive payment of your benefit when you retire,
- Interest rate history, policies and guarantees,
- Descriptions and performance history of investment accounts, and
- Special features and services offered by TIAA.

Default Investment Fund

If you do not make a fund selection, your employee contributions and the UNC System contributions made on your behalf will be automatically directed to the age-appropriate UNC Target Date Model. The UNC Target Date Model is a mix of investments with a level of risk that is considered appropriate for a person based on his or her age and closeness to retirement.

Changing Your Investment Fund Allocations

At any time, you may request that your future contributions be changed in order to allocate them to different investment funds. Contact TIAA to make this request.

Withdrawing Money From the Plan (Distributions)

Money taken from the plan is called a "distribution." This includes receiving benefits when you retire, or receiving the value of your plan account if you end employment with the UNC System before you retire.

When You May Take Money From the Plan

Remember that the ORP is intended to provide you with income after you retire. Therefore, you may not withdraw money from the plan while you are employed by the UNC System.

You may elect to receive a distribution from the vested portion of your ORP account:

- When you retire, as a retirement benefit (with various payment options available), or
- When you leave employment with the UNC System before retirement.

In addition, a distribution from the plan will be paid to your designated beneficiary if you should die before you retire or leave employment with the UNC System.

If you take money out of the plan before you reach age 59½, you may have to pay a 10% tax penalty, in addition to the ordinary income tax that applies to distributions.

Unless you choose otherwise, you should begin receiving a retirement benefit from the ORP when you retire and end your employment with the UNC System.

If you wish, you may choose to delay receiving your retirement benefit until some later time after you have retired. However, remember that to be eligible to continue your State Health Plan coverage during retirement, you must be in receipt of a monthly ORP benefit at the time you apply for coverage.

You must begin to receive distributions from the ORP by April 1 following the year in which you reach age 73 or retire from the UNC System, whichever is later.

The minimum amount that you must receive is governed by rules that are described in the ORP plan document.

SPECIAL IN-SERVICE DISTRIBUTIONS FOR PARTICIPANTS IN THE PHASED RETIREMENT PROGRAM

As an exception to the usual rules, tenured faculty who reach age 59½ and enter the University of North Carolina Phased Retirement Program after completing five years of participation in the ORP may begin receiving a benefit from the ORP while still employed with the UNC System, in any form of payment that is available from TIAA.

You will receive additional information if this applies to you.

Forms of Payment for Your Retirement Benefit

You will have the opportunity to designate one of several payment options for receiving your benefit when you retire. You must choose your payment option before retirement; keep in mind some payment methods cannot be changed once the payment of your benefits has begun.

The available options for payment will vary — you must contact TIAA to find out which payment options are available to you.

However, some of the most common methods of payment are outlined below. Just bear in mind that TIAA may not offer all of these options, details may vary, and various restrictions and rules may apply.

- One common method of payment is an annuity, which is a series of payments made over a specified period of time.
 - A single-life annuity (also called a life-only annuity) pays you a monthly benefit for as long as you live. The exact amount of your monthly benefit depends upon the value of the benefit you have accumulated in the ORP when you begin receiving benefits, and your life expectancy at that time.
 - Under a two-life annuity (also called a joint-and-survivor annuity), the plan pays you a monthly benefit for as long as you live. Upon your death, it continues to pay a monthly benefit to another designated recipient, sometimes called an annuity partner, for as long as he or she lives. Under some versions of a two-life annuity, the monthly payment that is paid to your surviving annuity partner is equal to the monthly payment you received; under other versions, your surviving annuity partner receives a percentage of the monthly amount you had been receiving. If your annuity partner dies before you do, payments cease upon your death — unless the payment option includes a specified minimum number of payments. In this case, if both you and your annuity partner die before the minimum number of payments have been made, the remaining payments are made to a designated beneficiary. (If there is no surviving designated beneficiary, payment is made to other persons as specified by the carrier's rules.)

Compared to a similar single-life annuity, monthly benefits under a two-life annuity will be smaller because two life expectancies must be taken into account rather than just one.

- You may be able to withdraw funds from your ORP account as a cash payment, either all at once as a one-time lump sum, or as a series of systematic withdrawals, depending on TIAA's rules. Other restrictions may apply.
- Fixed period withdrawals, if available, may allow you to receive income for a specified number of years, after which you will have received the total value of your plan benefit and payments will stop.
- Interest-only payments, if available, allow you to receive the current interest earned on your plan account while your principal remains intact and in the plan. This form of payment may only be available until you reach age 73, when specified minimum payments from the plan are required.

Again, this is only a sampling of some common payment options. Check with TIAA to find out about the specific payment options that are available to you.

ROLLING OVER YOUR DISTRIBUTION

If your distribution method allows, you may designate all or a portion of your distribution to be rolled over to an eligible retirement plan. Eligible retirement plans include, but are not limited to, a 403(b) plan, a 457 deferred compensation plan, a 401(k) plan and an individual retirement account (IRA). However, remember that to be eligible to continue your State Health Plan coverage during retirement, you must be in receipt of a monthly ORP benefit at the time you apply for coverage. See the plan document for details regarding rollover distributions.

Taxes

FEDERAL TAXES

When you begin receiving a retirement benefit from the ORP, any pre-tax contributions made by you and the UNC System, any rollover contributions, as well as any investment earnings on these contributions, are taxable as ordinary income. (If any of your employee contributions were made on an after-tax basis, the portion of your retirement benefit attributable to those after-tax contributions will not be taxable. Note that employee contributions to the ORP made prior to July 1, 1982, were made on an after-tax basis.)

STATE TAXES

The amount of your retirement benefit you receive each year that is subject to North Carolina state income taxes is the same amount on which federal income taxes must be paid. If the taxable portion of your annual retirement benefit is less than the amount of your exemption, you will not owe any state income tax on your benefits. In addition, if you were enrolled in the ORP on or before August 12, 1989, your ORP distribution, no matter what amount, is exempt from North Carolina state income tax (Bailey Settlement).

If You Leave Employment Before You Retire

If you leave employment with the UNC System before you retire, you have a number of options concerning your ORP retirement benefit.

- You can leave your account balance in the ORP until you begin receiving a retirement benefit under one of the various payment options available to you.
- As an alternative, under the ORP your retirement benefit is portable.
 - If you change employers, you may continue to use the same carrier under your new employer's plan, if the same carrier is available under that plan.
 - You may transfer or roll over your benefit into an individual retirement account (IRA) or the qualifying plan of your new employer, if it accepts rollovers.

However, remember that if you withdraw, transfer or roll over your entire ORP account before applying for coverage, you forfeit your right to retiree group coverage under the State Health Plan if eligible.

Keep in mind that if you withdraw money from the ORP before age 59½ without properly making a direct transfer or rollover into an IRA or other qualified plan, you may be subject to an early distribution penalty. Various rules must be followed in order to avoid this. For legal and tax advice concerning your situation, you should consult your attorney or tax adviser.

Distributions in the Event of Your Death

If you should die while still employed by the UNC System, you become 100% vested in the full value of your ORP account.

If you had not commenced payment from the ORP at the time of death, your beneficiary(ies) can elect among the payment options available from TIAA.

If you have already commenced payment from the ORP at the time of death, your beneficiary(ies) is (are) generally subject to the payment election already in place.
